- (2) a statement as to why sealing is necessary and why there are no alternatives to filing under seal;

L.Cv.R. 6.1(W.D.N.C. 2012).

As reflected in the rule, the court is required to consider the factors contained in Local Civil Rule 6.1(C). The first factor is found in Local Civil Rule 6.1(C)(1), which requires that the parties adequately describe the materials sought to be sealed. The rule requires “a non-confidential description of the material sought to be sealed.” L.Civ.R. 6.1(C)(1). The rule is intended to give third-parties, including the press, fair notice of the nature of the materials sought to be sealed. The description contained in the motion is adequate.

The court next considers Local Civil Rule 6.1(C)(2), which requires “a statement as to why sealing is necessary and why there are no alternatives to filing under seal.” L.Cv.R. 6.1(C)(2). Such statement has not been provided. However, the court discerns from reading the underlying materials that the reason for continuance can be summarized without doing violence to the information sought to be protected by stating that it involves conflicting professional commitments of the AUSA that would interfere with continuity of government counsel in prosecuting this case if no accommodation were made by the court.

As to Local Civil Rule 6.1(C)(3), a recent memorandum from the Judicial Conference indicates that sealing will be permanent in all cases.

Finally, the court has considered Local Civil Rule 6.1(C)(4), which requires the parties to provide citations of law supporting the relief they seek. While the government has not complied with such provision, such request is otherwise consistent with Media General Operations, Inc. v. Buchanan, 417 F.3d 424 (4th Cir. 2005), which held as follows:

We have held that in determining whether to seal judicial documents, a judicial officer must comply with certain procedural requirements. Washington Post, 807 F.2d at 390. The decision to seal documents must be made after independent review by a judicial officer, and supported by “findings and conclusions specific enough for appellate review.” Goetz, 886 F.2d at 65-66. If a judicial officer determines that full public access is not appropriate, she “must consider alternatives to sealing the documents” which may include giving the public access to some of the documents or releasing a redacted version of the documents that are the subject of the government’s motion to seal. Goetz, 886 F.2d at 66.

Id., at 429. The proposed sealing of the underlying Motion to Continue would be consistent with current case law inasmuch as the materials sought to be sealed involve matters of little public interest, inasmuch as they only relate to routine professional commitments of an attorney. The court has also considered less restrictive alternatives and can discern none.

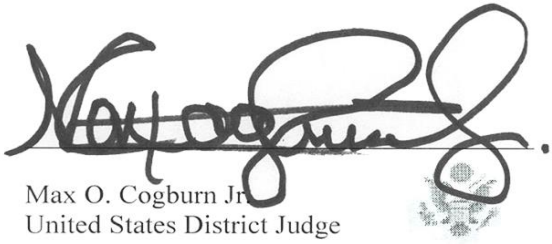

Having considered all of the factors provided in Local Civil Rule 6.1(C), the court will grant the Motion to Seal.
